If you are over 73, please review the following paragraph below.

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requires you to withdraw an annual Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) from your IRA(s) (Roth IRAs excluded) once you obtain age 73. If you have more than one IRA, you can add together all of your RMD amounts and withdraw the total amount from any of your Individual Retirement Accounts. If you do not annually withdraw the total RMD amount from your Individual Retirement Account(s), the IRS can impose an excise tax up to 25% on the RMD amount that should have been withdrawn. You may wish to contact Columbia Threadneedle Investments for the appropriate distribution forms so that you may start or continue to receive your required minimum distributions. To request distribution forms, call a representative at the telephone number listed below.

Signature of Depositor/Account Owner or Authorized Individual Date (MM/DD/YYYY)

Medallion Signature Guarantee (If required by current Custodian/Trustee. Please contact them for their requirements.)
